Speaker: Dr Kira Armstrong

Dr. Kira Armstrong earned her Ph.D. at the University of Victoria in British Columbia, Canada. She completed her internship through the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center Consortium, and her Postdoctoral fellowship at Columbus Children's Hospital. She is Board Certified in Clinical Neuropsychology (ABPP). Prior to moving to Boston in 2005, Dr. Armstrong directed a hospital-based pediatric neuropsychology service in Chicago. She currently directs the pediatric neuropsychology postdoctoral fellowship training program at Cambridge Health Alliance and runs a part-time private practice. Dr. Armstrong is a Board member of Massachusetts Neuropsychological Society (MNS), Chair of the MNS Professional Affairs Committee, and Chair of an AACN ad hoc committee on Outcome Studies Research. She is a founding member of the BRAIN ("Be Ready for ABPP In Neuropsychology") support group, which was developed to help board eligible neuropsychologists recognize the accessibility of the ABPP/ABCN board certification; BRAIN now has over 200 members who are actively working towards or who have achieved ABPP/ABCN diplomat status.

Learning Goals:

- 1) Understand advantages of pursuing diplomat status in neuropsychology.
- 2) Recognize resources that are available to help applicants work through the ABPP process.
- 3) Develop a working appreciation for how to structure their own approach for studying and preparation for each of the specific stages of the ABPP certification process.
